

As we begin a new term, it's great to see children returning to classrooms and teachers doing what they do best. We remain optimistic that students can experience their final school term of 2020 with their friends and can make the most of learning at school.

We hope you'll feel energised by the return of students. Stepping back into a physical environment from the virtual one may not be straightforward – we're here to support that transition by putting you and your students first.

La Trobe unveils new Strategic Plan

After extensive consultation, we've released our new Strategic Plan. This strategy charts a future direction that ensures we stay relevant, valued and successful over the coming years.

It's essential we emerge from lockdown as a resilient, future-focused and efficient institution that will flourish in a post-COVID world. As a university known for making a positive difference in the lives of our students, partners and communities, we've developed our strategy around the needs of the community.

Regional Career Practitioners' and Teachers' Conference

This month we hosted the Regional Career Practitioners' and Teachers' Conference. Our Pro Vice-Chancellor (Regional), Dr Guinever Threlkeld, gave an update on our new Regional Strategy and how La Trobe will keep promoting the development of regional communities. Dr Anne Southall discussed mental health and student wellbeing, examining the challenges career practitioners and teachers face due to the COVID-19 pandemic. Dr Andrew Harvey spoke about pathways to  and detailed our two new pathways, 'Prepare' La Trobe and 'Achieve' La Trobe.
